

Lasting Legacy

Right Risk

The USDA's Risk Management Agency and CTAHR - Hawaii Extension invite you to learn risk management strategies right for your operation. Participate in Leaving a Lasting Legacy: Transitioning a Farm or Ranch to the Next Generation with presentations and activities designed to help you and your family or business partners gain a better understanding of today's tools and techniques for successfully transitioning family operations.

Friday, June 3rd 2011
6:00 p.m. - 8:30 p.m.

Tavares Community Center, Pukalani

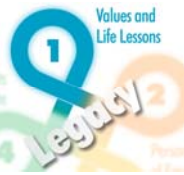

Welcome and introductions

Mark Thorne, Range Management Specialist, University of Hawai'i - Mānoa

Risk Management in Hawaii

John Hewlett, Ranch/Farm Management Specialist, University of Wyoming

Intergenerational Relationships & Values and Life Lessons

Rod Sharp, Ag Business and Extension Economist, Colorado State University

Personal Possessions of Emotional Value

Rod Sharp, Ag Business and Extension Economist, Colorado State University

Instructions and wishes to be fulfilled

Jeff Tranel, Ag Business and Extension Economist, Colorado State University

Financial Assets / Real Estate

John Hewlett, Ranch/Farm Management Specialist, University of Wyoming

How Much Risk Is Right For You?

Register to attend by contacting:

Melelani Abran, Kamuela Extension
808-887-6183 ~ mabran@hawaii.edu

